Thomas Honored For 35 Years' Service

Lt. L. E. Thomas, well known and well liked lieutenant with the Virginia Department of State Police, has "retired" from his desk and familiar sedan with the long antennae based at District State Police headquarters, but he faces a host of other alternatives to keep his days and nights filled with activity.

Lt. Thomas this year marked his 35th year of service to the Commonwealth as a law enforcement officer. He was first employed in 1936 as a trooper with the Division of Motor Vehicles.

He took basic training at Va. Beach, Camp Pendleton, plus a training course at Spotsylvania Court House and was then assigned to Patrick County (Stuart, Va.).

He was soon promoted to Corporal and worked in Bristol as a part of the plainclothes and investigative unit. Another promotion followed and the young Sergeant went to Norton, serving there and at Wytheville. He was promoted to the office of Lieutenant as a communications officer and was transferred to Staunton.

In 1957, Lt. Thomas, Mrs. Thomas and daughter, Barbara came to Appomattox where the Lt. has served as field lieutenant for the past fourteen years.

A retirement dinner was held for Lt. Thomas and family on Sept. 29 at Holiday Inn, North, (Lynchburg). Attending were State Police Department officials and friends of the honored family. A set of golf clubs was presented to Lt. Thomas. He calls himself a "duffer" but a "hole-in-one" a few years ago at the "old" golf course and his very active work toward the establishment of Falling River Country Club would indicate otherwise.

For all the Thomases the years have brought many honors. Mrs. Thomas is a teacher for both high school and adults in the home economics department at Appomattox County High School. Miss Barbara Thomas, winner of the "Miss Appomattox" title and later "Queen of Tobaccoland", holds both a baccalaureate degree and master's degree in education and is teaching in Martinsville, Va.

If you name a recent, famous crime case in Virginia, more than likely the Lt. was caught up in it. In 1939 he found a man who had just killed a sheriff, chief of police and a service station attendant. The resulting "shoot-out" almost cost Lt. Thomas his life . . . he still has a 45 slub bullet in his back as a lasting souvenir.

Just three years ago the Lieutenant went to Lovingston, Va. to check on a Sergeant reported to have been caught in a mud slide. That was August 19, 1969 and Hurricane Camille's

Supervisors Discuss County Subdivision

Land Offered For Recreation

Appomattox County Supervisors, meeting in regular session Friday, covered, as usual, many subjects of interest to residents and citizens, including some pertinent opinions on the matter of county subdivisions.

Attorney Robert Carter appeared before the board to say that in his opinion the present wording of the Subdivision Ordinance is causing a "Hardship" on many private landowners.

He said that the present wording describes a subdivision as any parcel of land from which a smaller parcel is sold (with certain exceptions as in the case of families selling or giving a parcel of land to a family member). Carter said that if a man has, for instance, 100 acres of land and wishes to sell about an acre to a non-family member, he must have his entire land owning platted, calling for costly surveyors' fees and other expenses.

Supervisor chairman O. W. Martin, Jr. said that if Carter would gather together more data on this problem and submit it, the board would consider the matter fully. In addition, supervisor J. C. Cole urged Carter to attend the next meeting of the County Planning Commission to present any alternative plans to the present wording of the ordinance.

Carter said that the wording of the present ordinance "tends to handicap builders", and that his concern is for the smaller buyer, purchasing land for $300 or $400 in order to build a low - cost home. He reminded the board that orderly development of the county is "what we all want" and that unused land, bringing in $4 or $5 a year in taxes might well bring in $125 when it is developed with a home standing on it. It is Carter's opinion that with regulations as they are, landowners will be most reluctant to sell a small parcel of land because of the costs of meeting subdivision requirements.

County supervisors on Friday also set a standard fee for medical calls to persons jailed in the Appomattox County Jail. The fee set ($10) was brought about because of the need for a set fee in order that the county will be reimbursed (on a 2/3/
